ATTITUDE TO LEARNING

LEARNING OVERVIEW

These are the Prince Henry's Grammar School Attitude to Learning Indicators – how would you rate your Attitude to Learning in all subjects?

Attitude to Learning	Rate your Att.	Teacher rating	Level of Att. has been shown to be one of the best predictors of outcomes in examinations.
1 Outstanding Attitude			You are very ambitious and your outstanding engagement with learning, in school and at home, enables you to stand out from the majority of students in your year group. You are a self-motivated, resilient, independent learner.
2 Better than expected Attitude			You are keen to succeed and sufficiently engaged with learning, in school and at home, to stand out from many of the students in your year group. You are an enthusiastic, responsible learner. Increased self-motivation, resilience and independence would make you an outstanding learner.
3 Minimum Expectation for Attitude at Prince Henry's			You like the idea of being successful but the level of engagement with learning, in school and/or at home, rarely enables you to stand out from other students in your year group. You are a learner who does what you are asked to do, but rarely extend yourself and are too easily satisfied with your progress. Increased enthusiasm and taking responsibility for your own learning would make you a better than expected learner.
4 Below Expected Attitude			You need to be more ambitious in order to achieve your true potential. Your level of engagement with learning, in school and/or at home is below the level of most of the other students in your year group. You are a learner who may need to improve listening, concentration or behaviour in class. You may need to improve your response to home learning or deadlines. Doing everything that you are asked to do would raise you to the minimum expectation for Prince Henry's.
