

White Crayon  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - feels empty and invisible - only colours snow and empty space - wonders why you use them 	Peach Crayon  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - feels embarrassed - is naked - needs clothes 	Black Crayon <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - thinks all other crayons are brighter than he is - doesn't want to just draw outlines
Grey Crayon  <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - tired of colouring BIG animals - likes pebbles and baby penguins 	Blue Crayon <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - happy being the favourite - feeling tired and worn out - stubby 	Purple Crayon <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - does not like scribbles - likes neatness - happy when you colour inside the lines

 Beige Crayon <ul style="list-style-type: none"> -jealous of Mr. Brown -only gets to colour wheat or turkey 	Green Crayon <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - very happy colouring lots of green things, like crocodiles and trees - worried about Yellow and Orange Crayon arguing. 	Red Crayon <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - works harder than all other crayons - HAS to work Christmas holidays and Valentine's Day - needs a rest
Pink Crayon <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - feels left out - is not just a girl's colour - wants to be a monster or dinosaur 	Orange Crayon <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - feels they are the colour of the sun - fallen out with Yellow Crayon 	Yellow Crayon <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - feels they are the colour of the sun - fallen out with Orange Crayon 